

High performance individuals can tap into a state of elevated performance where they are completely engaged, deeply focused, stress free, have positive emotion, and a clear strategy. In such a state, the to-do list is nailed and the day disappears.